

Here's a little email template to copy and paste or use as inspiration to write your own introduction to tournaments:

Greetings team,

As you know, we've partnered with Secure Code Warrior for a new approach to secure coding training. As part of this program, we'll be holding a tournament to get things started.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT?

In a time-limited event, you'll tackle a series of secure coding challenges and be required to locate the insecurity, identify the solution, and fix the vulnerability.

There's a wide range of software languages and frameworks to choose from but we recommend selecting the one you use most often.

ARE YOU READY FOR THE CHALLENGE?

The main event will be held on [DATE] at [VENUE] with a video link for other locations.

YOUR MISSION

Earn points and climb the leaderboard to be crowned 'Secure Code Warrior.' Of course, there will be prizes for the top 3 winners. [LIST PRIZES]

All are welcome and encouraged to participate! Please register your interest here: [INSERT LINK OR CONTACT]

If you'd like more info about this initiative, please [INSERT LINK OR CONTACT NAME]

Good luck!